MUSIC EDUCATION NPO OF THE YEAR

True Cadence CIC

Based in Barking and Dagenham, True Cadence CIC is an independent, music-focused social enterprise that operates throughout East London. Founded in 2020 by Creative Practitioner, Emmanuel Ebokosia – professionally known as Manny Loveankh – the NPO is dedicated to supporting the personal, professional, and creative growth of young people between the ages of eight and 25 through a range of specially devised programmes that aim to engage and inspire in equal measure. The diverse musical opportunities include workshops covering songwriting, sound recording, live performance techniques, music therapy, employability skills and a core programme which delves into the business aspects of the music industry.

The judges praised the collaborative approach adopted at True Cadence, who recognise the importance of inclusivity and partnerships to help grow their name and reach. Manny and his team of creatives work together with music industry professionals and lecturers from reputable universities to ensure their programmes are as relatable as they are impactful for participants. Through an innate understanding of the interests of young people and their musical drives, True Cadence has made real progress empowering their key audience and helping them to gain a comprehensive understanding of the opportunities available in the industry.
